Three of these books are to be read each year. New members are requested to take the first year's course, but where they have opportunities to read with circles who are taking the work of later years, there is no objection to their taking the same course as the rest of the circle, and making the first year's course that for a later year. New members will be enrolled for course A, unless they send a statement to the contrary.

COURSE A. — FIRST YEAR.

Fitch's Lectures on Teaching.
Payne's Lectures on the Science and Art of Teaching.
Hailman's History of Pedagogy.

COURSE B. — SECOND YEAR.

Hopkins' Outline Study of Man.
Quick's Educational Reformers.
Laurie's Life and Educational Works of Comenius.

COURSE C. — THIRD YEAR.

Sully's Psychology (abridged).
Currie's Early and Infant Education.
Compayre's History of Pedagogy.

The reading of all or a part of this prescribed course within the past two years will be accepted by the faculty, and credited to the student.

All orders should be sent direct to E. L. KELLOGG & CO., 25 Clinton Place, New York, where all these books are kept in stock, and will be supplied promptly. Orders can be sent through local dealers, if desired, but it is thought that greater promptness can be secured if they are sent direct to New York. Members in a town or school may send their orders together, and have books sent by express at a considerable saving.

Money should be sent with the order by P.O. money order, registered letter or express order, or bank draft. If books are to go by mail, always send the amount required for postage also. One to five books can be sent much more cheaply by mail than by express. In sending for books always state that you are a member of the Chautauqua Teachers' Reading Union.

Members may club together in the purchase of the books; we believe, however, that a member will take a greater interest in the subjects if he own his own books.

ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP FEE, FIFTY CENTS.

REGISTRATION IN C. T. R. U.

Persons wishing to join the C. T. R. U. should forward the annual membership fee of fifty cents to the Registrar, Miss K. F. Kimball, Buffalo, N.Y. Upon receipt of the fee, a certificate of membership will be forwarded with full instructions for the year's work.

Please write the first name in full, and be particular as to the post-office address. Any change in the address of any person should be made known at once to the Registrar.

The year's work may begin at any time, but the C. T. R. U. year begins Oct. 1st, and closes July 1st. Persons will be received at any time. Extensions will be granted to those who cannot complete the year's work within the year.

EXAMINATIONS AND CERTIFICATES.

The plan of examination used by the C. L. S. C. has been adopted also by the C. T. R. U. Memoranda will be sent at the beginning of the year to each student and can be filled out as the various required books are finished.

A Certificate of the C. T. R. U., signed by the Chancellor and the Principal of the Department of Pedagogy, will be given to each student, who shall fill out the required memoranda relating to the first year's reading. On the completion of the third year's reading a diploma will be issued. The blanks referred to are not strictly examinations, but are simply designed to ascertain whether the member has really accomplished the course of reading.

While it is the design of the C. T. R. U. to meet the wants of teachers in their professional reading in their individual capacities, it also aims to combine the social and circle elements, wherever practicable, in district, town, city, county, or state. Persons are encouraged to form circles wherever two or more can unite in the work of mutual advancement. The methods of the C. L. S. C., now so well known, will be, in the main, practically adopted in the C. T. R. U. Circles should be formed at once; names of members, names of officers, etc., sent to Miss Kimball, the Registrar, Buffalo, N.Y., and the work begun without delay. In the meetings of the circles, readings, discussions, essays, and social, as well as other exercises, may be most profitably introduced. In the organization of local circles, a simple form of constitution and by-laws may be adopted, with a president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer, and an executive committee, and such others as may be deemed necessary to carry on the work most profitably and successfully. The Central Office of the C. T. R. U. will supply circulars, etc., to any teachers who may desire them. Superintendents and Commissioners are earnestly requested to give the work of organizing their hearty co-operation.

THE SOCRATIC LEAGUE.

Members of the C. T. R. U., on completion of the three years' course of reading, become members of the Socratic League. Socratic League leaflets have been prepared by distinguished writers, and sent to all members gratuitously.

Two are issued each year. They deal with the following subjects: —

1. The Teacher preparing for School.
2. The Teacher in School.
3. The Teacher in Society.
4. The Teacher as a Reader.
5. The Teacher and Overwork.
6. The Teacher on Vacation.

C. T. R. U. AND C. L. S. C.

Graduates of the C. L. S. C., who are also members of the C. T. R. U., will, upon the completion of the three years' work of the C. T. R. U., be entitled to the Secular Normal seal upon the C. L. S. C. diploma. (See C. L. S. C. Hand Book Special Course, No. XI.)

COURSES AND METHODS.

COURSES OF STUDIES AND METHODS OF TEACHING

By JOHN T. PRINCE, Agent Mass. Board of Education. 12mo. Cloth. x + 344 pages. Teachers' price, 75 cents.

Part First gives courses of study for Graded and Ungraded Schools; Part Second, methods of teaching all the subjects belonging to the common school curriculum, together with general suggestions, principles, etc.; Part Third, Organization, Moral Training, and Government, including lists of apparatus, reference-books, etc.

This book is not intended as an exhaustive or philosophical treatise upon education; nor does the author claim to have presented much that is new or original. It is written in response to a desire often expressed in various quarters for a brief plan of studies that may be pursued in elementary schools, and for a simple and direct statement of good methods of organization, teaching, and discipline.

Sensible and useful. — It is one of the most sensible and useful books that I have recently seen. — C. C. ROUNDS, Prin. N.H. State Normal School.

Simple, plain, and practical. — I find in it little to criticise and much to praise. It is simple, plain, and practical, avoids extremes and "isms" of all sorts, and affords usually help enough to enable an intelligent beginner to grasp clearly the purposes and methods of school work. — J. W. STEARNS, Prof. of Science and Art of Teaching, Univ. of Wisconsin.

Principles as well as methods. — While being, as its title implies, chiefly concerned with methods, it does not lose sight of these great underlying principles which alone can give life to methods. I know of no other book in which the vital union between the two is made so apparent. — ELLEN HYDE, Prin. of State Normal School, Framingham, Mass.

BRIEF COMMENTS.

"Timely."

"Simple, practical, and succinct."

"The kind of a book that teachers will read."

"Comprehensive."

"Affords direct help at a critical point."

"Bears the weight of authority."

"Shows just what to do and how to do it."

"Avoids extremes and 'isms.'"

"An aid to superintendents and committees."

"Suggestive."

"Gives definite and minute directions for teaching each subject."

"Helpful matter, judiciously chosen and clearly stated."

"Illustrates the vital connection between principles and methods."

"The work of an experienced, practical educator."

"No teacher of experience can read it without profit."

"Helps teachers put their work on rational grounds."

FOR TEACHERS OF ARITHMETIC.

FIRST STEPS IN NUMBER. (Teachers' Edition.)

By G. A. WENTWORTH, A.M., and Miss E. M. REED, Principal of Manual Training School, Springfield, Mass. Half morocco. vi + 474 pages. Teachers' and introduction price, 90 cents. Also issued in three parts (30 cents each to teachers), bound in boards, as follows: PART I. First Year (Nos. 1 to 9 inclusive), 216 pages; PART II. Second Year (Nos. 10 to 20 inclusive), 116 pages; PART III. Third Year (Nos. from 21), 156 pages.

The Teachers' Edition takes up the work with the number three, and proceeds step by step, following the law of dependence and simplicity. Each of the smaller numbers is presented in succession under the four heads: 1. Perception of the number. 2. Analysis of the number. 3. Drill upon facts discovered by analysis. 4. Comparison with smaller numbers. The number, variety, and ingenuity of the examples are astonishing.

It is unique. There is no other book of the kind to be compared with it. — O. T. BRIGHT, Supt. of Schools, Englewood, Ill.

FRACTIONS. A Teachers' Manual of Objective and Oral Work.

By HELEN F. PAGE, State Normal and Training School, New Britain, Conn. 8vo. Boards. iv + 47 pages. Mailing price, 35 cents; introduction price, 30 cents.

This hand-book has been prepared to help teachers who are trying to present the subject of Common Fractions in a natural, interesting, and, at the same time, systematic manner. Sample lessons are given for objective work in all the operations, the material suggested being cardboard discs and the measures yards, bushels, gallons, etc. Problems abound, and a system of illustration of fractional facts with color-diagrams is introduced. By means of this system, a child may teach himself a great deal in a short time.

We can see no excuse for serious difficulty or waste of time in teaching fractions hereafter. — JOURNAL OF EDUCATION, Boston.

HOW TO TEACH NUMBER.

This is a pamphlet outlining the method followed in Wentworth's Series of Arithmetics. Specimen pages are given from the Primary and Grammar School Arithmetics. It is sent to teachers free of charge.

PRIMARY NUMBER CARDS.

Prepared by Miss ISABEL SHOVE, of the George Putnam School, Boston. Printed on cardboard, and boxed in sets of 60. Price, 25 cents.

Each card has one example in addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division, the simplest work being on the first numbers.

FOR TEACHERS OF LANGUAGE.

ELEMENTARY LESSONS IN ENGLISH.

Teachers' Edition of Part I. Cloth. 323 pages. To teachers, 60 cents.

This book contains the text of the pupil's book entire, and, in addition, Plans for developing the Lessons of the Text, Observation Lessons, Dictation and Test Exercises, Questions for Oral and Written Reviews, Materials for Composition Exercises, Plans for Conducting Picture Lessons, A Story Lesson, etc., etc., etc.

The Teachers' Guide (a preliminary chapter of the Teachers' Edition) discusses The Pestalozzian Principles of Education and Instruction, The Art of Questioning, Laws of Questioning, Methods of Correcting Oral and Written Mistakes, Oral Lessons: How to Prepare Them, How to Give Them.

It includes also Material and Plans for Oral Lessons in Language, for the first, second, third, and fourth years in school.

Harmonizes and utilizes most, if not all, of the practical advantages claimed for conflicting theories. — Dr. G. STANLEY HALL.

Teachers' Edition of Part II. Paper. 77 pages. To teachers. 15 cents.

This book consists of Oral Lessons, Observation Lessons, Exercises, Dictations, Vocabulary Lessons, Exercises in Parsing, Reviews, Cautions, Subjects and Plans, and, in short, everything required to elucidate and supplement the pupil's book. The Appendix contains Business Forms and Models for Letters, with a List of Books for Children.

It is brimful of valuable suggestions. — L. W. DAY, Supt. of Schools, Cleveland, O.

HOW TO TEACH LANGUAGE.

This is a pamphlet free to teachers, which outlines the methods of the Elementary Lessons in English Series, and gives many helpful suggestions.

FOR TEACHERS OF MUSIC.

THE NATIONAL MUSIC TEACHER.

By L. W. MASON. 8vo. Boards. 72 pages. For introduction, 40 cents.

Verbatim reports of actual lessons given to little children, showing the work of the teacher and class, step by step. As an embodiment of the principles of the National Music Course, and as models for the instruction of children, these lessons can hardly be too highly commended or too closely studied. They will be found helpful in the teaching of any branch of school work.

INSTRUCTION IN MUSIC FOR THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

This pamphlet, which is free to teachers, gives arguments for the introduction of music, courses of study in music for graded and ungraded schools, suggestions to teachers, and a full description of the National Music Course. Sent free on application.

VOICES OF CHILDREN. Principles and Discipline through which they may be made efficient in Speaking and Singing.

By W. H. LEIB. 12mo. Cloth. 64 pages. For introduction and to teachers, 40 cents.

Countless fine voices are ruined before the usual age for systematic vocal training is reached. This book is addressed to the right point, and will be found to merit the attention of all teachers. It is the outgrowth of many years' experience.

I consider it a valuable work, that should be read by every teacher who is engaged, or expects to be, in teaching, singing, or reading. — G. F. JUNKERMANN, Supt. of Music, Cincinnati, O.

FOR ALL TEACHERS.

SCHOOL HYGIENE.

Six Lectures delivered under the auspices of the Massachusetts Emergency and Hygiene Association, to teachers in the Public Schools of Boston. 12mo. Cloth. 196 pages. To teachers, 80 cents.

1. School Hygiene. An address delivered before the Massachusetts Teachers' Association at its annual meeting in December, 1884. By FRANK WELLS, M.D., Vice-President of Massachusetts Emergency and Hygiene Association.

2. Heating and Ventilation. By F. W. DRAPER, M.D., Assistant Professor of Legal Medicine in Harvard University.

3. The Use and Care of the Eyes, especially during School Years. By C. H. WILLIAMS, M.D., Assistant Surgeon of Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary.

4. Epidemics and Disinfection. By G. B. SHATTUCK, M.D., Visiting Physician Boston City Hospital.

5. Drainage. By FRANK WELLS, M.D., Editor of the Registration Report of the State of Massachusetts.

6. The Relation of our Public Schools to the Disorders of the Nervous System. By CHARLES F. FOLSOM, M.D., Physician to Out-Patients with Diseases of the Nervous System, Boston City Hospital.

Each lecture is from the pen of one exceptionally competent to deal with his subject. — THE ADVERTISER, Boston.
